

HOUSE RULES

- Have fun playing with trains and the kitchenette in the children's room, but please no shouting, rough-housing, wrestling, throwing or playing hide-and-seek anywhere inside the house.
- Have fun finding books in the library! But no playing on the stairs and railings is allowed because it is dangerous.
- Join us in the living room and dining room on club days when an adult is present, but the bedrooms and the kitchen are not part of the library.
- Please feel free to knit or crochet or talk on the couches, but no romping and pillow-fighting at any time.

- Feel free to play in the front yard! But, the side yard, back yard, camper area, and garage are not part of the library.
- Please feel free to park anywhere in the cul-de-sac but do not park in the driveway due to small children and dogs being present.

YARD RULES

PET RULES

- The doggies are so excited that you are here! The cat, however, does not like visitors and does not want to play. Please let him take his nap while you are here.
- The doggies think that everything is a toy - even your lovie, lunch bag, and the library toys. Please do not offer the dogs any toys, balls, or food - nothing should ever be put in or near their mouths for their sake and your safety.
- The doggies love to be petted by you! But they get confused if you try to teach them tricks, wrestle with them, or throw things for them. Please just pet them nicely.
